

Rolling Ridge Colony is located in the west end of South Russell Village. This subdivision is located between Bell Road and East Washington Street. It has the only primary connector road, Daisy Lane, connecting Bell Road with East Washington Street in the west end of the village.

First developed by Cedric Morrison, Rolling Ridge Colony was plotted in four sections. Plot I on May 3, 1955 was the north end of Daisy Lane from Bell Road to Woodside Road. At this time there was no dedicated road from the development to Bell Road, only an access road. The second plot on May 4, 1955 was Daisy Lane from East Washington Street (then State Route 422) and the south end section of Woodside Road. The third plot was on August 9, 1955 that included the north end of Woodside Road and Forest Drive.

In 1955, Morrison deeded to The Village of South Russell the land first used as the access/ service road to the development off Bell Road and the village continued Daisy Lane through to Bell Road as a dedicated road.

On August 1, 1957 plot IV (Deerfield Drive) was accepted. In November 1960, all roads were paved in the development including the extension from Daisy Lane to Bell Road. On January 18, 1961, Daisy Lane, Woodside Road, Deerfield Drive and Forest Drive were dedicated as village roads.

The neighborhood is part of a Homeowner's Association. As of 2019, dues were $75.00 per year. Annual events include a neighborhood picnic in August and a hayride for children at Halloween. Over 500 luminaries are set up throughout the neighborhood every Christmas Eve, a tradition that began in the 1960s.

There are 76 homes in this subdivision, including the four homes on Deerfield.

Geauga County sanitary sewers service this area but all homes are on wells.

Voting is in Precinct C, which is located at Gurney School.
